

The Constructivist

Vol. 21, No. 1 ISSN 1091-4072

From the editor.

As we continue our reviews for the next edition of The Constructivist, we encourage you to consider sharing your experiences and inquiries with us. Whether in the area of practice or research, we welcome your submissions.

Contact Amy Malkus at malkus@etsu.edu for more information

After a lengthier than planned for delay in publication, we are pleased to present the latest issue of The Constructivist!

We are also pleased to welcome Cathy Landy, a doctoral student in early childhood education at East Tennessee State University, in her new role as Associate Editor for the journal. With new staff in place and new articles under review, The Constructivist is moving forward with plans to become a twice a year journal – with issues planned for winter and summer of each year.

The articles presented in the current issue were accepted under the former editor, and due to changes in the web site, the journal editorial staff, and translation issues, were unfortunately delayed in the timing of publication. We would like to thank all the authors for their patience in waiting for their work to be published, and we are happy to finally be able to share these articles with you. You will see that they offer a window into the world of constructivism in countries from the US, to Mexico, to Tanzania.